TRUSTEES.—Dr. Bernard M. Allen has been elected a Trustee to fill the ıncy caused by the death of Mr. Athelstane A. Tayler.

LIBRARY PREMISES.—A new steel book-stack, capable of holding from t to nine thousand volumes, has been fitted up in an unoccupied room in North Wing. It will be used mainly as a storage room for modern books in frequent demand, and will reduce the congestion on many shelves in Reading Room and Lending Department.

NEW BAXTERS.—The list of books printed before 1801 recently added to Library (to be found on page 23) includes two interesting additions to our ter collection. 'Catholick communion defended against both extreams. . . ve parts' (4to, 1684) is a very rare item, consisting of a re-issue, with general title, of 'Schism detected in both extreams' (2 pts., 1684), 'Catholick communion defended' (2 pts., 1684), with a new section, vey of the reply to Mr. Humphrey,' sandwiched between the two.

As to the other, 'A Holy Commonwealth' (8vo, 1659), it is not possible ɛt to say how rare this is, until copies in other libraries have been collated it. It is undoubtedly the earlier of two editions both published in the 1659, and following each other, page for page and, generally speaking, for line. Bibliographers do not appear so far to have differentiated een these two editions, copies of each of which the library now possesses. earlier edition has a page of errata immediately after the contents, and he title on sig. A1. The later edition has the errata corrected, and has itle on sig. A2. There should be a leaf preceding the title, with a title- printed across it. This is missing from our copy, but may be seen in Thomason copy at the British Museum.

CENTENARIES.—We shall have no centenaries of our own to celebrate we come to the tercentenary of the Founder's birth in 1943. But ıwhile it is pleasant to be able to take our share in commemorating those hers. For the tercentenary of George Herbert's death we have been d to exhibit the unique Little Gidding transcript of 'The Temple' with Latin poems and corrections to the English poems in his own hand. For icentenary of Priestley's birth we were able to show the two fine portraits rtaud and Fuseli, and the collection of letters to Belsham from England from America.

It would not be easy to find any historical link between Dr. Williams's t and the beginnings of the Oxford Movement, though it would be ble, but ungracious, to produce not very flattering comments on eyism' from the pages of Crabb Robinson's diary.

But when we come to the centenary of the passing of the Act for the ition of Slavery, we shall be able to exhibit letters to Crabb Robinson Thomas Clarkson, the great anti-slavery apostle, side by side with some Quaker anti-slavery pamphlets, and some letters from Mrs. Harriet her Stowe addressed to the Bristol and Clifton Auxiliary Ladies Anti- ery Society.

Notes and News.

Donations.—We are always particularly grateful to readers who show appreciation of the Library by giving us presentation copies of books, e preparation of which we have been able to be of service. Amongst who have done so during the past six months mention may be made of Edith Batho: The later Wordsworth; Sir Frederic Kenyon: Schweich ures on Recent developments in the textual criticism of the Bible, and rst two parts of the Chester Beatty Papyri; and Mr. R. W. Ramsey: y Cromwell.

Our thanks are also due to the children of the late Mr. Rayner Storr, r of a Concordance to the De Imitatione Christi, for presenting to the ry Mr. Storr's collection of editions and translations of the De Imitatione. has not yet been time to catalogue the collection in detail, but a hasty ination makes it apparent that there will not be as much duplication editions already in the Library as might have been anticipated. We hope to print in the next number of the Bulletin a complete list of ns and translations in the Library, including the new gift.

Dr. Williams and the Protestant Succession.—We are indebted to f our readers for calling attention to a quotation by Prof. Trevelyan 'England under Queen Anne,' Vol. 2, page 16 from a letter addressed r. Williams to Harley dated November 29 1704. The letter, which ritten the day after the defeat of the Tack in the Commons, is preserved gst the Portland Manuscripts and is printed in full in the Historical scripts Commission, 15th Report, appendix part iv, page 152.

Scholarships.—Mr. H. C. Lefever, B.A., B.D., of Hackney and New ge and Mr. Ivor Oswy Davies, B.A., of the Theological College, rstwyth, have been awarded Travelling Scholarships for the session 4.
